John Ernelle C. Alba
Full-Stack Web Developer

PROFILE

I'm a career shifter with a background in engineering who has transitioned into the world of full-stack web development. My engineering degree has equipped me with a strong analytical mindset and problem-solving abilities, which I apply to web development with precision and attention to detail. I am a quick learner, adept at adapting to new technologies, and excel in cross-functional teams, thanks to my effective communication skills honed during my engineering studies.
